| 7. It's about % salt - compared to the oceans of the world which are 3 - 5% salt. So it's the most saline body of water in the world with no sea life living in it.                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                               |
| 8. The Dead Sea has water that comes from the Jordan River but it has no outlet. The Jordan empties an average of 6 million tons of water every 24 hours. Yet it never gets deeper because the water evaporates . How large and deep is it?                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                                |
